Description

This sterling silver Victorian style hand bookmark is designed as a decorative page marker inspired by Victorian novelty silverware and the nostalgic humour associated with antique literary accessories. The stylised hand motif forms a slim clip design intended to slide neatly over a book page while marking a place within the text.

Its distinctive silhouette and refined proportions give the piece the appearance of a miniature ornamental silver object while maintaining practical everyday functionality for books, journals, and personal libraries.

Handcrafted in England from 925 English hallmarked sterling silver, this bookmark is carefully shaped and polished using traditional silversmithing techniques. The detailed hand motif and refined finish reflect the heritage craftsmanship associated with Ari D. Norman London silverware.
