

Pair of Solid Silver Casters - London - 1902 by Thomas Slater,
Walter Slater, Henry Holland

£1,500

John Bull (Antiques) Ltd.

REF:

Height: 14.5 cm (5.7")

Depth: 7 cm (2.8")

Weight: 366 g

Description

A distinguished pair of Edwardian solid sterling silver casters hallmarked London 1902, crafted by the renowned silversmiths Thomas Slater, Walter Slater & Henry Holland of Holland, Aldwinckle & Slater. Celebrated for their exceptional quality and fine English craftsmanship, this pair represents the elegance and functionality of early 20th-century silverware.

Each caster features a classic form with refined proportions and rich patina, reflecting over a century of careful use and preservation. Perfect for adding heritage character to your dining table or silver collection, these casters are ideal for sugar, spice or condiment presentation in both traditional and contemporary interiors. Their crisp hallmarks and sterling silver purity attest to authentic English manufacture from one of the period's most respected firms